They finally advised me to try a certain medical college, but its treatment did no good. At the time I was induced to try Cuticura he was so bad that I had to cut his hair off and put the Cuticura Ointment on him on bandages, as it was impossible to touch him with the bare hand. There was not one square inch of skin on his whole body that was not affected. He was one mass of sores. The bandages used to stick to his skin and in removing them it used to take the skin off with .hem, and the screams from the poor child were heartbreaking. I began to think that he would never get well, but after the second application of Cuticura Ointment I began to see signs of improvement, and with the third and fourth dry up. What is known as the National Joint Committee, with headquarters in Washington, is waging war on the practice of the government making stamped envelopes, without charge for the printing and of distributing them free. This, it is claimed, is an interference with the legitimate business of the job printers all over the country. It stands to reason that a job printing concern has no chance in competition with free work by the government. The National Joint Committee is pushing a bill in Congress designed to prohibit the printing of certain matter on stamped envelopes and the sale of the same. The bill provides that "it shall be unlawful for the Postoffice Department, or any officer, head of bureau, or chief of division thereof, to print or have printed, or sell or offer to sell any stamped envelopes bearing upon it a printed direction giving the name of any individual, firm or company, or any number of any post-office box or drawer, or any street number of the name of any building to which it shall be returned if uncalled for or undelivered: Provided, That this shall not apply to those envelopes printed with a return eard left blank as to name, address, box, drawer, street number, or building, and which only give the name of the town or city. with the State, District or Territory. The return request, printed blank, ought be left where it is. But the best interest of the public could not possibly be sacrificed by legislation to abolish the evil practice of

Good Work of Autoists.

At the last general assembly of the French Touring Club the president revised the tremendous work accomplished by the association in the last year and the increasing support it re-ceives from all sides. The membership since the last meeting shows an increase of 4000, which leaves the society with a sum of 400,000 francs to be spent with State and other aid on the construction of the big Alpine road (which will connect the lake of Geneva and the Mediterranean in an unbroken line of 600 kilometers) and different other great highways, besides improving the roads leading out of Paris and in the neighborhood of the city.

The Touring Club has already spent 2,000,000 frames on the reads of France and 120,600 francs on steam and motor boat services. The T. C. F. has also done a great deal to encourage sport and travel among the youth of France, and the formation of excursion societies, comprising some 2000 members among the pupils of the lycces and boarding schools, is due to its agency. Its most recent developments are the creation of a committee in aerial navigation and one for bringing the French colonies of Algeria, Senegal, Madagascar, Indo-China and in the Atlantic more preminently forward as pleasure and health resorts.

For its intervention with regard to preserving the character of an island to Mont St. Michel it deserves the gratitude of the country, says the Queen, as also for its work in favor of the forests by saving them from destruction in some cases and having theri replanted in others, while making every effort by appeals of all kinds to propagate knowledge in schools and among the general public on the value and importance of trees and rivers.

By opening out hitherto unexploited districts for winter sports training guides in ski running and generally by its work in favor of alpine sports it deserves the greatest praise and gratitude from the populations in isolated districts. Thus the Vosges, the Cevannes, the Jura, the Pyrenees and the French Alps have become accessible as winter resorts to the great benefit of the native population and the advantage of French and foreign pleasure and health seekers. It is quite impossible to estimate here all the T. C. F. has achieved to encourage this industry by organizing meetings and competitions, distributing shis and toboggans, etc., so as to make their use familiar in France.

Progress in Roadmaking,

Director Page, of the Federal Dureau of Public Roads, has issued a review of the year's work under his supervision which conveys the impression that he is somewhat discouraged with the progress of the good roads movement. He points out that while more money was spent in road construction and improvement in 1909 than in any former year, we are nevertheless making poor headway in such work as compared with various countries in Europe. He holds, in fact, that, considering area, population and wealth, we are virtually where we were thirty years ago in the matter of outley for road-making.

According to a careful consus there are now about 2,155,000 miles of public road in the United States. In 1904 the total expenditures on roads walking up a steep hill on the I in the entire country amounted to a about $1.05 per capita. Applying the same ratio, the expenditures in 1909 would amount to approximately $30. 000,000. But as against that amount spent on 2.155,000 miles of road. England spends about $50,000,000 a year on 150,000 miles, or say fourteen times as much per mile as we do. We have only about 40,000 miles of stone-surfaced road, according to Mr. Page's report, or something like two per cent, of the total mileage, and our total expenditures for roadmaking during the thirty-year period extending from 1870 to 1900 aggregated no less than $1.800,000,000. It is probably true, as Mr. Page remarks, that much of that money was wasted in mistaken enterprises, but it is equally true that the whole business of road development is steadily improving and that every year witnesses better results from the money so invested.

Director Page's survey of the situation would doubtless present a far more satisfactory view if it were supplemented with a summary of the work accomplished by State and local projects of roadmaking. Nearly every State of the Union has instituted undertakings of that character, and while some are rather limited in scope the results taken altogether would probably convince candid observers that the country's progress in highway development is decidedly more satisfactory than Mr. Page appears to believe .- New York Mail.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? We can furnish positive proof that it has made many remarkable cures after all other means had failed.

Women who are suffering with some form of female illness should consider this.

As such evidence read these two unsolicited testimonial letters. We guarantee they are genuine and henest statements of facts.

Cresson, Pa .- "Five years ago I had a bad fall, and hurt myself inwardly. I was under a doctor's care for nine weeks, and when I stopped I grew worse again. I sent for a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, took it as directed, and now I am a stout, hearty woman."—Mrs. Ella E. Aikey,

Baird, Wash .- "A year ago I was sick with kidney and bladder troubles and female weakness. The doctors gave me up. All they could do was to just let me go as easily as possible. I was advised by friends to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier. I am completely cured of my ills, and I am nearly sixty years old."—Mrs. Sarah Leighton, Baird, Wash.

Evidence like the above is abundant showing that the derangements of the female organism which breed all kinds of miserable feelings and which ordinary practice does not cure, are the very disorders that give way to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Women who are afflicted with similar troubles, after reading two such letters as the above, should be encouraged to try this wonderfully helpful remedy.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.
